IN INTRODUCING

. . OUR . .

CATALOGUE we wish to say that by studying closely for more than eight years the requirements of Institutions of all kinds for Aseptic and Sanitary Furniture, we have won a reputation second to none for construction and finish. Our entire works are under our direct personal supervision, ensuring exactness in every particular. Our vast experience as manufacturers of these goods, coupled with close application to all details of mechanism, is double assurance to our patrons of being well served when entrusting any work to our care.

We are constantly striving to improve to-day the climax of yesterday. Thanking our many friends for their kind favors in the past, and begging continuance of same, we are,

Very respectfully,

THE ELECTROTHERM.

The Electrotherm is a flexible sheet or pad composed of asbestos with embedded wire, which, when attached to the socket of an electric lamp, offers sufficient resistance to the current to produce a constant and uniform degree of heat during operations.

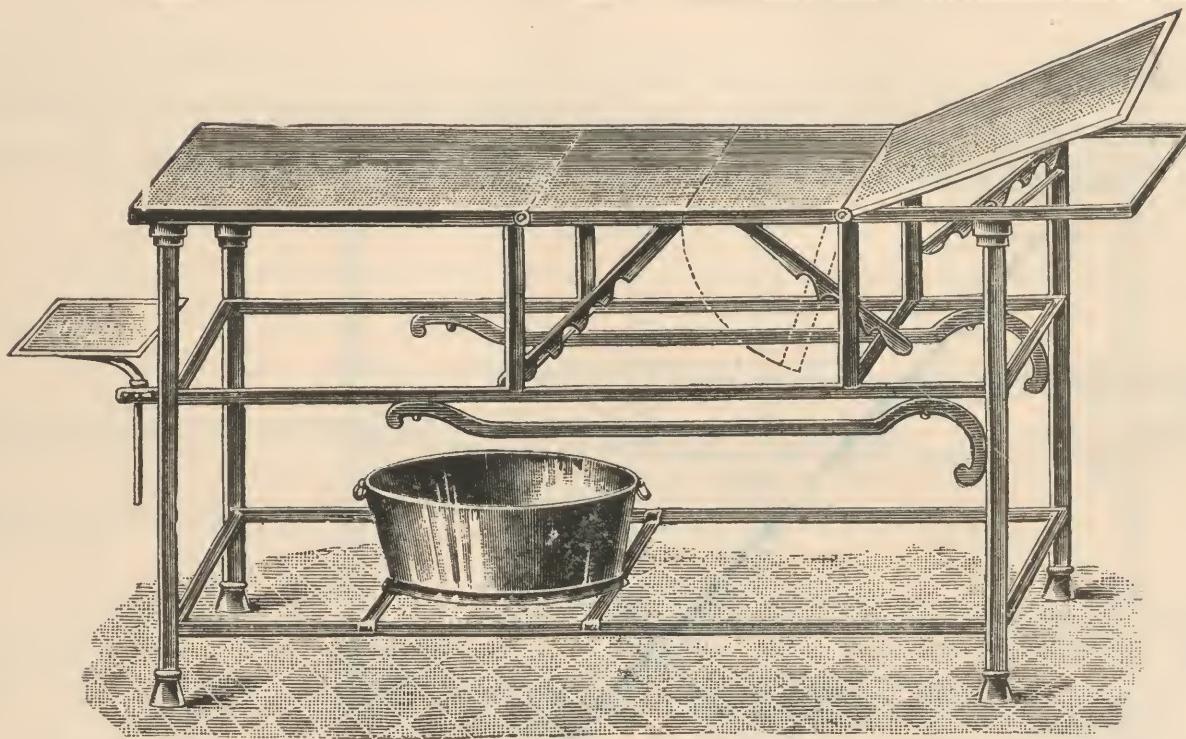

Price on application. Please state size when writing.

No. 1075.

This table is known as the "Boldt" table, but we have added some very valuable improvements which make ours the most desirable table made, the double curve to posts at rear end overcomes the interference with the shoulders when the top is being tilted. The top is of polished plate glass, concaved, with opening in centre to carry flush into deep gutters which direct it into pail; the lift rack is neatly and mechanically made in true circle with the swinging point, thereby making it easily operated. The clamp for holding stirrups at the proper height and position can be managed with greatest ease. The entire frame is galvanized and rubbed down to smooth surface before the white enameling is applied. There will be no rust joints. All attachments are nickel plated.

It has been found in practice that the various curves will fit the parts of the body most perfectly as follows:

[a]—Side of forehead, lip, chin, front and side of neck, arm, forearm, leg.

[b]—Side and back of head, back of neck, shoulder, thigh.

[c]—Side of head, side of the face, under breast, chest, abdomen, loin, under buttock, under scapula, upper part of thigh.

[a], [2, b]—Below ear, with [2] behind angle of jaw, in the axilla, with the arm raised, in the fold of the nates, in either the knee-chest or lithotomy position.

[e]—In loin, when patient is lying on back, on back between scapulae.

The small curves, 1, 2, 3, 4 and 5, serve to fit into depressions in various part of the body.
